Generation No. 3

While elder sister Mariana's fate is uncertain, Margaret³ Gray went on to marry Peter Huty (see Figure 04) (b. 1819) 23 Sep 1839. He was born in Cottingham, Yorkshire, England and settled in Montreal, Canada when his father, Joseph Huty, relocated the family in 1831. After his father's death, Peter moved to Brampton to live with his maternal grandfather, William Smith. In 1835, he finally settled in Toronto to work as a general contractor for the Government. Peter was a valuable asset to the budding village of Yorkville through his service as a councilman and Justice of the Peace. During his fourteen years on the council, he had a major role in the construction of the York Township Town Hall and the Jesse Ketchum public school, advocated for a street railroad on Bloor Street despite much opposition, and served as lieutenant under Colonel Davis of Weston during the Rebellion of 1837-38. His resourceful real estate investments also afforded him property in Delaware, Middlesex West County, Ontario, where he worked as a farmer for six years.

Peter married Margaret at the Cathedral Church of St. James 23 Sep 1839. The Huttys became parishioners of the Catholic Apostolic Church. In addition to his involvement with government affairs, Peter supported his family by working as a butcher in St. Lawrence Market. Peter and Margaret raised their large family on the corner of Cottingham and Yonge streets in Yorkville, near Margaret's family. The Huttys lived on Cottingham Street for over twenty years. An 1850-51 directory lists the Huttys on lot 21, concession 2 in York Township. Peter and Margaret also lived on Davenport Road, west of Avenue Road. Peter died 28 Jun 1882 and Margaret lived as a widow until her death on 31 Oct 1901. She was buried 2 Nov 1901 at Toronto's Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Also of interest is Peter's younger sister, Rebecca Margaret (Mercy?) Huty (b. 1825, was living in 1907, aged 81 years). She married William Gray (b. ~1824 in England) 26 Dec 1848 at St. James Church. The couple lived in York, Ontario for the remainder of their lives, with William working as a butcher. An 1851 census shows the couple living with Mary Gray, a 53 year old widow, and Selena Gray, a 15 year old girl. Because William was age 28 at this time, it seems quite possible that Selena could be William's sister, and Mary, his mother. According to Selena's wedding record, her parents were Richard and Mary Gray. If Selena is indeed his sister, William Gray might be related to John Gray, Amalia Haacke's husband, through Richard Gray. Perhaps Richard was a cousin or other relative of John's? How and if William and John Gray are related remain hypothetical. William died 06 Mar 1891, leaving behind no known children. Rebecca died 17 Mar 1907. Also, in 1869 William took over the butcher business from Peter Huty.

DEATH OF MR. PETER HUTTY- The death is announced of Mr. Peter Hutty at the residence of his son, on the corner of Yonge & Maitland Streets. The deceased was one of the old pioneers of Yorkville, taking up his residence there 30 years ago. He was the first reeve of the village, a position which he held for eleven years. Though a residence of Yorkville, he carried on business in St. Lawrence Market, and enjoyed in the city, as in the village, the highest esteem of all with whom he came in contact with. He had reached within a few years of the allotted span when he was called over to majority. Deceased was a member of the York Pioneer Society.

(Just for accuracy's sake - he took up residence in Yorkville more than 30 years before his death, and Yorkville's first reeve was James Dobson - Peter was on the first council.)

THE GLOBE, June 29, 1882: ONE PIONEER LESS- The civic flag is floating a half-mast, out of respect to the memory of Mr. Peter Hutty, of Yorkville, who died Wednesday at his residence on Yonge Street. Mr. Hutty was a member of the Society of York Pioneers

THE GLOBE, June 29, 1882 (in Yorkville news section)

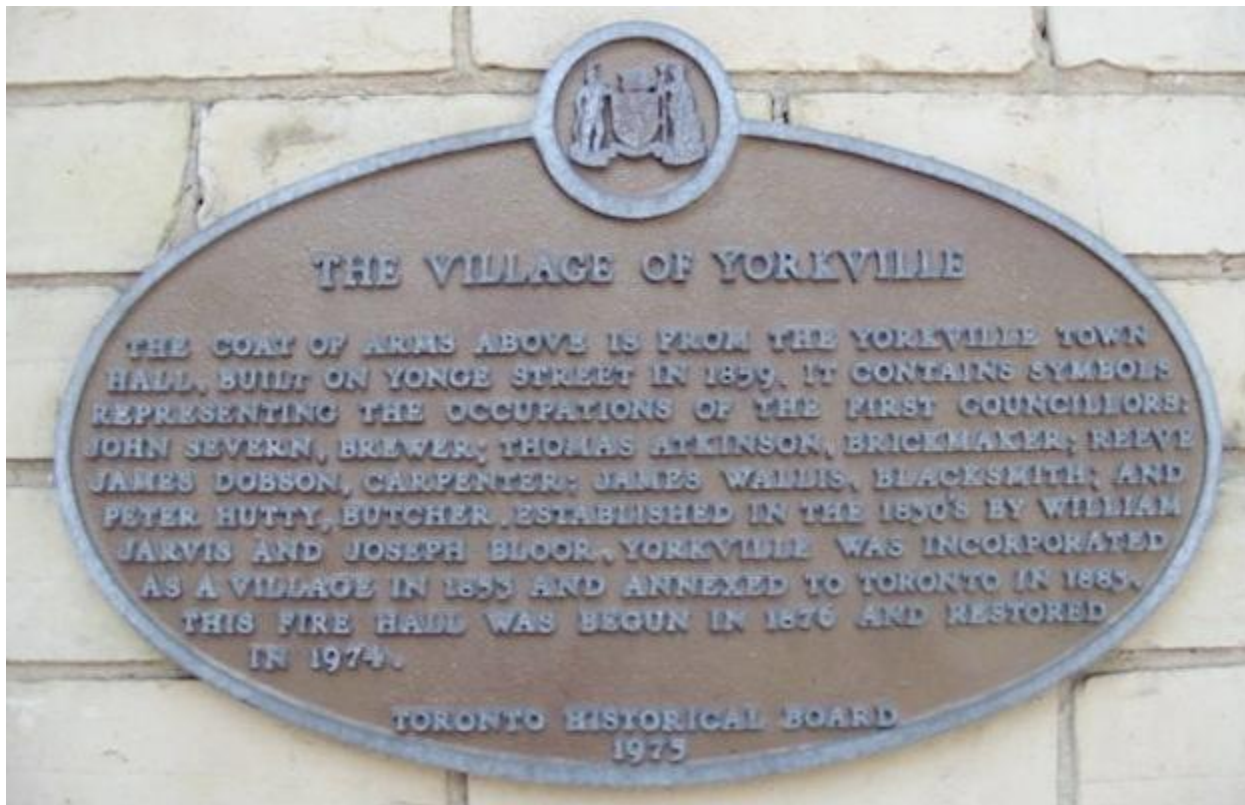

"Flags are flying half-mast high from the several corporation buildings in memory of the late Mr. Peter Hutty, Who for the last 42 years had been a resident of Yorkville, having come here when the place contained but a few hours. He was in the council on several occasions, and in 1859 he was elected reeve. He was most generous in life, and ever ready to help those requiring assistance.

THE TELEGRAPH, June 29, 1882: Mr. Peter Hutty died yesterday, at the residence of his son, on the corner of Yonge and Maitland Streets. Deceased was the reeve of Yorkville. He carried on a successful trade in butchers' meat in St. Lawrence Market for many years. His geniality was well known. He was 64 years of age. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 3 p.m.

PETER HUTTY, deceased, was born at Cottingham, near Hull, Yorkshire, England, in 1819, being the only son of a family of four children, born to Joseph and Mary (Smith) Hutty. His father died in Montreal soon after they arrived, and his mother then came to York. He went on the farm of his maternal grandfather, Wm. Smith, who had emigrated from Yorkshire, England, and settled near Brampton. I.A. Smith was a son of his, who kept the Yorkshire House here for many years. He remained with his grandfather until he was seventeen years of age. In 1836 he came to Toronto, and engaged in a business in St. Lawrence Market, where he remained many years, carrying on a large business, and engaging in Government contracts. In 1839 he married Margaret, second daughter of John Gray, who was born in York in 1796. By his marriage he had a large family of sons and daughters, most of them living at his death in 1882; they were educated and brought up at the family residence, corner Yonge and Cottingham Streets, which street he named after his native place. For fourteen years Mr. Hutty held a seat in the Yorkville Council, two or three of which he was reeve, during which he introduced, and carried against much opposition, the erection of the Town Hall, the Public School, and allowing the street railroad to cross Bloor Street, all of which proved of great advantage to the people of Yorkville. He was a Justice of the Peace for several years. In politics he was a Conservative. Of a noble, generous disposition, he was respected by all who knew him. (Vol. II, p. 82)

Alfred Heber⁵ Hutty (Joseph Warren⁴, Margaret³ Gray, Amalia² Haacke, Johann¹) was born 15 Sep 1878 [40] in Grand Haven, Michigan and married Bessie Burris Crafton 15 Apr 1902 [41] in Kansas City, Missouri. She was born 10 Nov 1881 [42] in Liberty, Missouri. Alfred earned great acclaim as an artist, becoming famous for his oil and watercolor paintings as well as etchings. He won several awards for his work, which was exhibited at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art (1918), the Detroit Institute of the Arts (1923), and the Art Institute of Chicago, among others. He belonged to several art societies, including the Society of American Etchers, Allied Artists of America, and the Woodstock Art Association [Descendants of Mary]. Alfred died 27 Jun 1954 in Woodstock, New York.

Alfred Hutty came to Charleston in 1919 when he was already in his early forties and immediately cabled his wife "Come quickly. Have found heaven." Having worked as a stained glass designer in Kansas City and Tiffany Glass Studios in New York, Hutty began a long association with the Woodstock, NY art community and with Lowell Birge Harrison, who was also a mentor of fellow Charleston artist Alice R.H. Smith. Indeed even after he moved to Charleston, Hutty maintained a studio in Woodstock until his death in 1954. Primarily an oil and watercolor painter, Hutty apparently did not seriously take up etching until he moved to Charleston, but quickly demonstrated his complete mastery of the medium, winning awards all over the country. All the while, he continued to paint in oils and watercolours, and also produced hundreds of pencil drawings and sketches. Alfred Hutty was one of the founding members of the Charleston Etcher's club. He was active in the Footlight Player's Workshop in Charleston and painted murals for several public buildings.

Public collections that include Alfred Hutty: Art Institute of Chicago, Los Angeles County museum of Art, Greenville County Museum of Art, Morris Museum of Art, Gibbes Museum of Art, British Museum, Fogg Museum of Art, New York Public Library, Cleveland Museum of Art, and the Library of Congress.

A leading figure in the Charleston Renaissance group of artists, active between 1915 and 1940, who stirred national artists through their widely distributed illustrations of life in the historic city, he worked for Tiffany Studios and lived in Woodstock, New York. He came to Charleston looking for a warm climate to spend the winter, and from 1920 to 1924 directed the school of the Carolina Art Association at the Gibbes Art Gallery. A regular summer resident until his death in 1956, he was also one of the founding members of the Charleston Etcher's Club. He worked primarily in dry point but also did paintings of non-romanticized scenes such as stooped figures in doorways and buildings in need of repair. In fact, he did a dry point etching of the tenement on Catfish Row immortalized by DuBose Heywood in his novel "Porgy" He also did oil paintings of lush gardens and plantation scenes.

Obituaries for Arthur Hugo Ray:

“Metro Visionary, Hugo Ray Dies After Lengthy Illness”

A man who envisaged the Lower Mainland as one giant metropolitan area is dead.

Cancer claimed the life Saturday of lawyer Hugo Ray, QC, chairman of the Metropolitan Joint Commission.

Mr. Ray, 58, died in St. Paul's Hospital. He had battled the disease for several years.

He did not live to see his metro dream realized, but several recommendations urging amalgamation of some services were passed to the provincial government by his commission.

Mr. Ray had been reeve councillor, park board chairman and commissioner of West Vancouver municipality; chairman of the Lower Mainland Park Advisory Board; director of the Community Planning Association; and president of the Vancouver Bar Association.

He was born in London, Eng., and came to Vancouver as an infant. His father was a well-known mariner on coastal waters.

He was educated at Lord Roberts, King George and Magee High schools.

He graduated from University of B.C. with an arts degree in 1923 and later from the Vancouver law school conducted by B.C. Law Society.

For almost 40 years he was a member of the Firm of Bull, Housser, Tupper, Ray, Guy and Merritt.

A specialist in municipal affairs, he was appointed by the provincial government to head the Metro Commission in 1958.

Mr. Ray said when he was appointed that he was not sure that metro was a good thing and that the commission would not give any opinions before it got all the facts.

He became convinced it was a good thing and at times lost patience with those who disagreed.

He told a meeting in 1960:

“Metropolitan government is the only thing for the Greater Vancouver area and people have to raise their sights above the level of petty, piddling, parish-pump politicians if they want to boost what's good for the area as a whole.”

But his impatience was a quick-passing thing and he was known for a bubbling sense of humor.

In 1960 he was appointed by the federal government to a board of arbitration of international disputes under the International Court of Justice.

Mr. Ray is survived by his wife, Rhoda, at 320 Mathers, West Vancouver, and six children: sons Martin, Julian, John and Kenneth; daughters Mavis and Mrs. Murley Keith and a brother, Godfrey, of San Francisco.

Funeral service will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Jervis and Pendrell. Rev. J. A. G. Wilson and Rev. J. W. Ellis will officiate. Burial will be in Capilano View Cemetery, West Vancouver.

Nunn and Thomson funeral directors are in charge of arrangements.

Malcolm Macfarlane grew to manhood in his native country, and there learned the printing business. He served during the Crimean war as a member of the Royal Artillery, and received both the English and Turkish medals for gallant services rendered. On coming to Toronto Mr. Macfarlane followed his trade for a time, and then embarked in the grocery and liquor business on Gerrard street. In 1861 he engaged in the hotel business, continuing therein until his death, at which time he was the oldest hotelman in Toronto. Since his death Mrs. Macfarlane built, in 1898, the new "Macfarlane Hotel," at Nos. 99-105 Jarvis street, which is operated by her son. Mr. Macfarlane married Miss Mary Hawkshaw, born in Ireland in 1834, daughter of Robert and Matilda (Carey) Hawkshaw. Mrs. Macfarlane came to Toronto in 1849, and has been a continuous resident of the city since that time. She can recollect when there were neither street cars nor steam cars in the Queen City, and has seen it grow from a small town to its present proportions. In 1893 Mrs. Macfarlane and her daughter, Mary, settled at No. 466 Euclid avenue, where they now reside.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane were as follows: Miss Mary; Robert, deceased; Jessie, the wife of John Matthews, of Toronto; Matilda, who married Alfred E. Burgess of Toronto, and has one son, Frederick; and Alexander, proprietor of the hotel, who married Miss Jane Smith, and has one son, Malcolm. Mr. Macfarlane was a Presbyterian, while his widow is a member of the Church of England. He was a member of the I.O.O.F., and the Army and Navy Order. His political sympathies were with the Conservative party.

PETER HUTTY, who departed this life in Toronto June 9, 1882, was one of Toronto's most prominent men. He was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1819, son of Joseph Hutter, who came to Canada in 1831, settling at Montreal, where he died leaving one son, Peter, and three daughters—Mrs. Thomas Lawson, Mrs. William Gray (now in her eighty-second year), and ———.

After the death of his father, Peter Hutter made his home with his grandfather, William Smith, of Brampton (father of I. A. Smith, of Toronto, and David and Robert Smith of Brampton, all of whom lived to advanced years). In 1835 he came to Toronto and engaged in general contracting for the Government, in which he continued all his active life. In addition to his extensive contracting business, Mr. Hutter had very large real estate holdings in Toronto, owning all the property on both sides of Coting-ham street, the corner; however, now the property of the estate of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, M.P. Mr. Hutter also owned a large farm at Delaware, County Middlesex, and there he spent five years engaged in milling and farming, the late Judge Adam Wilson being a partner in the milling. He was a lover of fine horses, owned a large stable, and drove some of the finest horses in the county. He was often called upon to act as judge of fine cattle and sheep.

For thirteen years Mr. Hutter was a member of the council of Yorkville and reeve thereof for a number of years. He was a justice of the peace, was instrumental in having the street cars pass Bloor street, and in building the York township town hall and the Jesse Ketchum school, both of which were great additions to their localities, and he was tendered parliamentary honors at the hands of the Conservative party, an honor which, however, he declined. He was a fine platform speaker, and was greatly in demand for platform work during campaigns. He was a firm friend and sincere admirer of Sir John A. Macdonald. Mr. Hutter was distantly related by marriage to William Henry Harrison, ex-president of the United States.

In 1838 Mr. Hutter married Miss Margaret Gray, born in Yonge street, Toronto, in 1821, daughter of John Gray. She died in Toronto in 1902. John Gray was born in the County of York, in 1796, and he married Margaret Hackey, daughter of Captain Hackey, who was born in Markham township. Her mother was Hannah Adams, a distant cousin of John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States. With the exception of six years, which were spent on their farm in Delaware, Mrs. Hutter spent her entire life in her native city, and was a good Christian woman, beloved by all who knew her. Her reminiscences of early days, and of the Rebellion of 1837-38, were highly interesting and instructive.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Hutter settled on Cottingham street, where they resided for twenty years and more, afterward living on Davenport road, both sides of which he owned west of Avenue road. The children born to them were: (1) Joseph William, deceased, was educated at the Upper Canada College, was a member of Captain Allister Clark's Mounted Cavalry in the fifties. He was in the forage contracting business for some time, then engaged in railroading, and later for fifteen or twenty years was in the drug business in Grand Haven, Michigan, where he was greatly beloved. He died in Kansas in 1893. He married Miss Susan Squire, daughter of Capt. Heber Squire, of Grand Haven, who with their five children—Alfred, Hassen, John; Alice and Jessie—survives. (2) Alfred, of Poplar Plains road, County of York, married Miss Diana Lothian, of Delaware, Ont., and had children, George, Fred K., Hattie, Mary and Margaret. (3) James Henry, born in Toronto, in 1844, was educated at the Old Grammar School and Upper Canada College, learned the drug business with F. Hooper & Co., King street, and has been in that line in Toronto since 1866, his present location being 528 Yonge street. He is a member of the York Pioneers, the Upper Canada College Old Boys, and the Astronomical Society. (4) Margaret Matilda married Thomas Godson, a merchant. (5) Charles P. died young. (6) Annie Elizabeth married Capt. Perry Beale, son of Judge Beale, of Maidstone, Kent. (7) Alice Ada. (8) Miss Emily Helena. (9) Frederick Acheson, postmaster at Grand Haven, Michigan, was a friend of the late President McKinley and of President Roosevelt of the United States. He married Miss Birdie Squire, daughter of Captain Squire, of Grand Haven, and has these children, Clarence, Bernard, Margaret, Emily Helena and Frederick H. (10) Robert Howland Gray, of the Toronto postoffice, married Miss Flora Patterson, of Peterborough. (11) Charlotte Olive, born at Delaware, died in Toronto in 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutty were consistent members of the Catholic Apostolic Church. In politics Mr. Hutty was a Conservative. Fraternally he was affiliated with the Masonic Order, and the Pioneers of York. He held a commission as lieutenant in Her Majesty's service under Col. Stoughton Dennis, of Weston, and in the defence of his country took part in the stirring times of the Rebellion of 1837.

CHARLES C. GOING, a well-known barrister of Ontario, who passed away at his late residence, No. 36 Evelyn avenue, Toronto Junction, Ont., June 2, 1902, was born at London, Ont., Oct. 21, 1860, son of Dr. Henry and Harriet (Brough) Going.

The Going family is of Irish extraction, and in 1859 was founded in London, Ont., by Dr. Henry Going. He married Harriet Brough, daughter of the late Archdeacon Brough, who founded the family in Canada in 1830. To Mr. and Mrs. Going were born these children: Frederick, Minnie, Nellie, Charles C. and Henry.

Charles C. Going received his education at London, Ont., and there began the study of law with Fraser & Fraser, completing his course at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in 1881, in which year he was called to the Bar. Mr. Going first settled in the practice of his profession at Winnipeg, with the firm of Bair & Blanchard, but returned to London, where he resided a short time and then went to Strathroy. After two years at the latter place he settled at Toronto Junction, where he became solicitor for the town, a position which he filled very efficiently until his death. Mr. Going had made a speciality of municipal law, and was thoroughly fitted for the position he was called upon to fill.

Mr. Going was married to Miss Ada Marion Whately, daughter of Rev. John Clements and Hannah (Robinson) Whately. Mr. Whately was born in England in 1805, and educated at Oxford. He came to Canada about 1864, settling in London, Ont., where he died in 1867. He was twice married. His first wife bore him six children: Charles C.; Edward; Henry; George; Harriet; and Alice. By his second wife, Hannah Robinson, he had two daughters: Ada M., Mrs. Going; and Rose.

To Mr. and Mrs. Going were born the following children: Enid Hartland, born in 1887, in Strathroy, resides with her mother; Phyllis Marjorie, born at Toronto Junction in 1894, died the same year; and Brough Whately died in infancy. Mr. Going was a Conservative in politics, and in fraternal connection a Mason. He was a member of the English Church, to which Mrs. Going also belongs.

WILLIAM A. SMYTH, who passed away at his late residence in Toronto, No. 187 Crawford street, Feb. 17, 1888, was born in Ontario, son of James and Anna (Harrison) Smyth, the former a native of Ireland, and the latter of England.

James Smyth came to Canada when a young man, and soon thereafter settled in Toronto, where he became a commission merchant, continuing in this business until his death. He was twice married, his first wife being the mother of our subject.

William A. Smyth began business with his father, but later went to the office of the Massey-Harris Company, as an accountant, where he continued until his death. He had a large acquaintance in business circles, and wherever known was highly esteemed.

Mr. Smyth married Miss Sarah Helen Johnson, born in Toronto, daughter of Samuel and Ann (Fair) Johnson, natives of County Mayo, Ireland. Mrs. Johnson came to Montreal in 1829, and to Toronto in 1833. She was a daughter of Robert and Margaret Fair, natives of County Mayo, Ireland, where they died. They had children: John, William, Robert, James, Mary, Elizabeth and Ann, all of whom lived to be eighty-five years old or over. To Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson the following children
